

Moral Dilemma Cards

You are offered 10 million dollars if you will push a button that will kill someone. No questions asked. No way of getting caught.

Do you push the button.

You drop your new phone and it stops working. The warranty is now void. But there is no sign of physical damage.

Do you admit fault when you bring it for repairs?

As an Olympic champion, you are offered $200,000 to endorse a product you would never use. You hate it.

Do you endorse the product?

The clerk at your garage forgets to charge you for a $25 oil filter. You think their labour charge is too high.

Do you go back and mention the mistake?

For 10 years, you have lived on the income of your lover, who is very wealthy.

You break up.

Do you demand half of everything?

You agree to buy a friend's piano. Later, you discover that the agreed price is too high. Your friend has already told other buyers that it is sold,

Do you insist on re-negotiating the price?

Moral Dilemma Cards

You sell cars and work on commission. A young man wants to buy an expensive sports car, spending most of his salary. He'll probably default.

Do you still sell the man the car?

You don't have the money to pay your tuition, but you want to finish college. Your uncle, who makes his money illegally, offers to pay your tuition.

Do you accept his help?

On a job application, you are asked if you ever had psychiatric care. You saw a psychiatrist for depression five years ago.

Do you mention it?

You are a doctor treating a patient that you personally know, for a terminal illness that will be extremely painful.

Do you do everything in your power to prolong their life?

Your lawyer's personal problems have affected his work. You consider him a friend.

Do you report him?

You are purchasing your first house from an elderly lady. You can't believe your luck. She is asking way too little.

Do you tell her?

Moral Dilemma Cards

In a parking lot, you accidentally dent someone's car with your car door. It's a very small scratch.

Do you leave them a note?

You just started your business and got your first client. During a meeting they make some racist remarks.

Do you cancel your contract?

You are phoning a friend at 2 a.m. and accidentally dial another friend by mistake. Your friend answers in a very sleepy voice.

Do you identify yourself?

Your brother is a police officer. One night, he tells you that he lost his temper and beat up a man on the street, late at night.

Do you report your brother?

You are speeding and are pulled over by the police. You've also had a couple of drinks. The officer is a friend.

Will you be truthful? Will you ask them not to arrest you?

You find a lottery ticket on the street. A week later, you check it and you've won $50,000.

Do you try and claim the money?

