

Narrator: Here's a story on how strange is life with its changes. And it happened not long ago. On a high mountain plain where the sagebrush arranges a playground south of the snow, lived a lamb with a coat or remarkable sheen. It would glint in the sunlight all sparkly and clean. Such a source of great pride that it caused him to preen. And he'd break out in high-steppin' dance. He would dance for his neighbors across the way. I must say that they found his dancin' enhancin' for they'd also join in the play.

(An owl hoots & rattle shakes.)

Narrator: Then one day...

(A car engine sputters, razor whirs & giggling.)

Narrator: Then a-boundin' up the slope, came a great American Jackalope. This sage of the sage, this rare hare of hope, caused to pause and check out the lamb.

Jackalope: Hey, kid, why the mope?

Lamb: I used to be something, all covered with fluff, and I'd dance in the sunlight and show off my stuff. Then they hauled me away in a manner quite rough and sheared me and dumped me back here in the buff. And if that's not enough, now my friends laugh at me 'cause they think I look ridiculous, funny and pink.

(giggling.)

Jackalope: Pink? Pink? Well, what's wrong with pink? Seems you got a pink kink in your think. Does it matter what color? Well, that get's a nope, be it pink, purple or heliotrope. Now, sometimes you're up and sometimes you're down, when you find that you're down, well, just look around. You still got a body, good legs and fine feet, get your head in the right place and, hey, you're complete. Now as for the dancin', you can do more. You can reach great heights, in fact you can soar. You just get leg up and you slap it on down, and you'll find you're up in what's called "a bound." Bound, bound, and rebound. Bound and you're up right next to the sky. And I think you can do it if you give it a try. First, get a leg up, slap it on down.

(An owl hoots & rattle shakes.)

Narrator: So, every year, long about May, they'd load him up and they'd haul him away. And they'd shave him and dump him all naked and bare. He learned to live with it, he didn't care. He'd just bound, bound, bound and rebound. Now in this world of ups and downs, so nice to know there are Jackalopes around.

(A chattering sound.)

Be Positive

Yes, I can!

INSTEAD OF:

TRY THIS:

"I'll never be able to do this."

"I'm not very good at this and am going to fail."

"This is too hard for me."

"Others will think I'm terrible."

"I'm not good enough."

Yes, I can!

INSTEAD OF:

TRY THIS:

"I'll never be able to do this."

"I'm doing the best I can right now."

"I'm not very good at this and am going to fail."

"I've accomplished so much already."

"This is too hard for me."

"I know I'm capable of doing this."

"I will figure this out."

"I'm not good enough."

"Let me give it a try."
