

The Man In The Arena

P+ two minutes. Altitude, 32 kilometers. Speed one kilometer per second, down range. Distance thirty kilometers.

It's not the critic who counts, not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who's actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood, who strives valiantly who errs who comes short again and again because there's no effort without error and shortcoming but who does actually strive to do the deeds, who knows great enthusiasms, the great devotions who spends himself in a worthy cause, who what the best knows in the end a triumph of high achievement and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly. So let his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who neither know victory nor defeat.
